Huey Long In Very Bad With Newpapermen

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—UP— Resentment over ejection of newspapermen at the national convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars at Milwaukee Wis., at the request of Huey Long, led Chester Gibbon publicity director of the V. F. W. in Washington, to resign today.

Newspapermen were forcibly barred from the convention meetings yesterday at the pugnacious senator's behest.

"It is hopeless to attempt to give publicity of a constructive sort to organizations which permit forcible ejection by direction of its national officers, of newspapermen at the request of a character such as Huey Long," Gibbon a Seattle newspaperman, said.

PROSECUTION WOULD BLAST 'LOVE BIRD' HOME LIFE

SAN JOSE, Aug. 30—A story of domestic strife in the "perfect marriage" of David and Allene Lamson and of the husband's trips to Sacramento to see a blonde divorcee was told today at the trial of Lamson for his life.

The 31-year-old sales manager of the Stanford University press is accused of beating Allene to death last May 30.

Pieces fell into the jig-saw puzzle of circumstances rapidly today, completing part of the picture the state is assembling. To hang David Lamson, the state must prove his wife was slain, that Lamson did it and that he had a motive.

Find The Motive

Today's testimony dealt with motive. Earlier witnesses had not clearly established that Mrs. Lamson's death was murder, and not the result of an accidental fall.

1—That Lamson told Frank J. Taylor, Los Altos writer that his wife was not happy, that "the situation could not go on indefinitely and that a climax would come soon."

2—That Lamson drank in Sacramento with Mrs. Sara M. Kelley. They were seen breakfasting together in the morning. They went to a snow festival together. He had a charge account with which he bought flowers for Mrs. Kelley. He tried to get her a job.

Cross-examination did not shake either charge.

Friendly With Girl

A Sacramento florist, Mrs. Marion Johnson, and W. A. Friend, manager of the Stanford Press, testified to Lamson's friendship for the Sacramento divorcee.

Hotel records were introduced to show Lamson visited Sacramento on January 11, left the next day, registered again January 18, left January 20; registered February 8, left February 11; registered once more in February, twice in March and twice in April.

Lamson and Mrs. Kelley dined in Sacramento "four or five times" the last one on May 18, 12 days before Mrs. Lamson's death, Mrs. W. H. Bartlyett, a waitress, testified.

To Show Letters

Mrs. Kelley's handwriting was identified. Apparently letters were to be introduced in evidence later.

Portly Undersheriff Earle Hamilton and jovial Deputy Howard Buffington testified for the state. Both told of their investigation the day Mrs. Lamson was found dead.

"My God, why did I ever marry her," Lamson said to his sister Dr. Margaret Lamson in Hamilton's presence, the officer claimed.

Again The Pajamas

Hamilton declared Lamson told him he had removed his pajamas

Boy Scouts Saved From Cliff Ledge

ADIRONDACK CLUB, LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 30 — UP — Three boy scouts who had been marooned on a lodge 400 feet up the side off Wallface Mountain since early yesterday, were rescued today.

A group of forest rangers, state police and mountain climbers succeeded in pulling the youths—Tyler Gray, William La Due and Robert Glen of Plattsburgh—200 feet up the side of the sheer precipice by means of ropes.

They were immediately taken to a camp at Indian Pier, a half mile away.

The extent to which they suffered from 36 hours on the ledge was not known immediately.

GOOD ANGLING TOLD

Innocent Pawn

Baby Allene Genevieve Lamson, innocent victim in the tragedy which finds her mother dead and her father on trial for his life charged with the murder of the mother, can't understand why "mother don't come home." Accompanied by David Lamson's mother, Baby Allene recently paid her first visit to her father since he has been held in the Santa Clara county jail. "Papa's coming soon," she gravely tells visitors to the home of Mrs. Lamson.

Fall Fashion Display Dates Are Set By Local Merchants

With the backbone of the depression cracked and people the country over rallying heartily to the doctrine of the NRA. Richmond merchants today will make ready for the annual display of new merchandise, an event known as the "Fall Opening Fashion Display."

Much of the program and general plans have already been decided upon, and this year's event promises to outdo all those gone before.

The local merchants will begin distributing prize tickets this morning.

Adult visitors at any of the participating stores may secure these tickets for the asking.

There will be many excellent articles of merchandise to be given away during the "Fashion Display" days.

September 6 has been designated as "display night" by the merchants. It will be the occasion when the stores of this city will put on the Fall Opening Fashion Display. This night is usually a gala occasion for local as well as out-of-town people.

There will be a pet parade on Saturday morning, September 9, and a doll buggy parade the following Saturday morning.

E. G. Schlanker, who is signing up entries for the former, and Al Furrer, who receives registrants for the latter, both report an early list of young paraders already being made up.

In the case of one or two leading Richmond stores the store policy does not allow use of gifts, but the following will both give prizes and distribute tickets:

Young "Water Pistol-Bandit" Is Wounded In Holdup Attempt

OAKLAND, Aug. 30 — A young bandit was shot and captured today after he had held up a garage attendant with a water pistol.

The wounded youth gave his name as Jack Price, 19, and said he came to Oakland ten days ago from Seattle.

The man who shot him is Arthur Overman, night attendant in a garage and service station at 10001 Foothill boulevard.

Draws Pistol

Overman said Price entered the place, threatened him with what appeared to be an automatic pistol, forced him to enter a back room and bound his wrists and ankles with tape.

The victim said his bonds were not tight and he managed to free himself in a few minutes and reach an adjoining room where he kept a shotgun loaded with buckshot in anticipation of just such an emergency.

Seizing the weapon he ran to the front of the garage in time to see Price, only a few yards away. He called upon the youth to halt, he said, and fired one charge in the air. Price ran and Overman fired directly at him.

Bloody Trail

The youth disappeared in the darkness but police, who responded to Overman's call, found a trail of blood which led to his arrest two blocks away.

Police said Price had in his pockets $7 taken from the cash register of the garage and a water pistol resembling an automatic.

Price was taken to Highland Emergency Hospital where physicians found nine shot wounds in his body. Five of the slugs pierced his left arm, two his abdomen, one his chest and one his left leg.

"First Job"

The youth told police this morning's holdup was his first "job" but an investigation was ordered to determine whether he is responsible for a series of chain store robberies here recently.

Price said he was broke and unable to find work.

Suit for Damages Is Now Under Way

MARTINEZ, August 30 — The damage suit of Daisy A. Febles against Randall Burroughs and E. Burroughs has started before a jury in Judge A. B. McKenzie's court.

The plaintiff, represented by T. M. Carlson, asks $20,869.13 damages for injuries asserted received in an automobile collision. Clifford Anglim is counsel for the defense.

WILD GANG NETS CASH, RUNS WILD

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Aug. 30—A gang of bandits stole $30,000 from two messengers today, killed one policeman and wounded another in front of the courthouse.

Then they sprayed buildings with machine gun bullets and escaped through a smokescreen in automobiles equipped with sirens.

Witness said after it was all over that it was little short of a miracle that only one man was killed. Hundreds of bullets were fired during the furore.

The man killed was Policeman Leo Pavlek, 35.

Oakland Man Carries Out Gun Threat

OAKLAND, Aug. 30—In an attempt to carry out the murder threat that led to their separation, John G. Dixon, Oakland ferry employe, today shot and perhaps fatally wounded his divorced wife, wounded her 7-year-old daughter, and killed himself.

The shooting occurred in Mrs. Dixon's apartment at 440 Page street, San Francisco, where she had been living with her two young daughters by a former marriage since obtaining a divorce from Dixon in Oakland, on August 1.

Mrs. Dixon is in the San Francisco Hospital with wounds in the neck and abdomen which are believed to be fatal.

Had Made Threats

In her divorce complaint, Mrs. Dixon said that several times since their marriage in 1931, Dixon had threatened to kill her.

It was apparently in a pretense of bringing her first alimony payment to her that Dixon gained access to his former wife's apartment.

Neighbors said they understood Mrs. Dixon had been expecting an alimony payment today.

On her dresser the police found a receipt, written in her own hand, apparently ready for the amount to be filled in.

This morning Mrs. Ruby Stenson was preparing breakfast in her apartment adjoining that of Mrs. Dixon, in company with Mrs. Louis Green. The door was ajar, and the two women saw a strange man pass by in the direction of Mrs. Dixon's apartment.

There came a sudden volley of shots and the two women, rushing out of the door, saw Mrs. Dixon stagger into the hallway and collapse.

There came several more shots from inside the apartment accompained by the scream of a child.

When the police arrived they found Dixon unconscious on the floor of the apartment, and Barbara lying near him, wounded and crying.

Dixon had shot himself through the head. He died at the Central Emergency hospital without regaining consciousness.

Berle Will Go To Cuba Soon As An Adviser

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—UP—Adolph A. Berle, member of the Roosevelt "brain trust," will be sent to Cuba as economic and financial adviser to the Cuban government, the United Press was informed tonight on high authority.

It was understood President Roosevelt had approved the appointment, which is expected to be announced officially at the conclusion of the public hearing on a sugar stabilization agreement during which Berle has been accused by domestic refinery of prejudice in favor of Cuban sugar.

STATE INCOME TAX DIES BY POCKET VETO

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30.—UP—Governor Rolph tonight "pocket vetoed" the last four legislative bills before him, including the ad valorem tax repeal measure and the income tax act.

The governor had previously announced he would veto the income tax.

The four measures were killed automatically at midnight when the governor failed to sign them by that time.

Bad Bill

The chief executive said his veto of the ad valorem repeal bill was impelled by a conviction the state's credit would be impaired if the bill were permitted to take effect.

"Repeal of this statute would mean the state has no statutory authority for making up deficiencies in state revenue," he explained.

"By pocket vetoing the bill the statutory authority is left unchanged and this method of balancing the budget is available in the event it is the only possible method of doing so.

State Credit

"If I were to deprive the state of the last resource for meeting deficiencies, the result would be that the credit of the state would suffer and with it the credit of counties, municipalities and districts."

The Governor observed his action should not be interpreted to mean he favors an ad valorem tax.

"I am opposed to such a tax unless it is a matter of extreme emergency after all other measures have failed," he said.

"The method, however, which has been in the constitution and statutes since the beginning of the state, should still be left to the state, so that the state still has the method, although it may not be deemed advisable to use it."

Penalty Bill

Another measure vetoed, Senate Bill 731, would have added a one percent penalty to redeem property sold to the state for taxes. The money would have been turned over to the controller's office.

The Governor said he disapproved the measure because it ran counter to his conviction tax penalties—particularly penalties payable on redemption—should be sharply reduced. He commented on measures passed by the legislature accomplishing this purpose and observed they were "the most meritorious bills of the entire session."

License Tax

The fourth vetoed measure would have authorized counties to impose a license tax on itinerant vendors who sell for purposes other than resale.

It was disapproved because "municipalities already have this power and in view of the objections filed to grant the same powers to counties would authorize double taxation."

Figures Reveal War At State's Capital

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 30.—UP—Cold figures tonight revealed the extent of the sensational midsummer war between Governor Rolph and an unsympathetic legislature

These figures showed the Governor vetoed 119 of the 1161 bills passed by the legislature—one out of 10.

The legislature retaliated by overriding his veto on nine assembly and eight senate bills, a total of 17.

The recapitulation showed 1161 bills were presented to the Governor for signature; 426 by the senate and 735 by the lower house. In the final windup, however, 1076 bills approved by the legislature became law.

Less than one out of every three bills introduced during the session became law. There were 2443 assembly and 1226 senate bills submitted for a total of 3669.

Legislators killed 2508 of them and the Governor's veto disposed of 102.

Official recapitulation figures showed:

Bills presented to the Governor	1161
Signed by the governor	1027
Bills became law without signature	15
Vetoes which were sustained	98
Vetoes overridden	18
"Pocket vetoes"	4

Doctors In Dilemna As Toll Mounts

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—UP— A mystefied medical fraternity tonight intensified efforts to build up a defense against the swiftly spreading sleeping sickness epidemic here, as an additional 40 persons were ordered to isolation wards during the day.

Hampered by their limited knowledge of the disease, health experts under the leadership of Dr. J. P. Leake of the United States Department of Public Health, admitted they were baffled by their inability to effectively fight the malady.

Dr. Leake today said he believed that the germ which a half a dozen bacteriologists are trying to locate, is remaining hidden because it is too small for the mightiest microscope to reveal. A two weeks search for the germ has failed to reveal a single clue, Dr. Leake said.

Deaths Mount

As the death toll climbed, however, scientists considered widening their search to other fields.

Official figures released by the Metropolitan Health Council, formed to fight the encephalitis epidemic, revealed that 47 persons had died—one today—since the disease was discovered here a month ago. A total of 362 persons have been stricken during that period.

Today's total of new victims was the largest number to be received in any one day since the disease first appeared, 343.

Efforts Fail

Because all efforts to isolate the germ in the hope of using that research as a basis for fighting the disease have failed, health experts are gravely handicapped.

Treatment is being confined, physicians said, to drainage of spinal fluid to relieve inflamation about the brain—no serums have been developed despite frantic efforts of bacteriologists.

MARTINEZ VISITOR

Zeb Knott spent yesterday in Martinez.

Local Pythians Visit Martinez Tuesday Evening

Members of Richmond lodge, Knights of Pythias, are planning a trip next Tuesday evening. They will go to Martinez to witness the conferring of the knights rank by a team from the Pythian Home.

All planning to attend are asked to meet at the corner of Sixteenth street and Macdonald avenue. A large attendance is expected from lodges throughout the district.

Local NRA Drive Is Sailing Along In Winning Style

With more than 50 per cent of the local homes signed up, the Richmond drive for NRA pledge cards will jump into the closing lap today.

The drive to date has been most satisfactory, according to those in charge. Practically every home contacted has eagerly signed the government pledge, anxious to secure an NRA eagle to hang in a window.

Two new organizations, the Women's Westside Improvement club, with Mrs. Carrie Spiersch, and the Jobs Daughters with Ruth Fenix, representing them, are the latest groups to join the NRA parade locally.

Others announced yesterday were Native Daughters, Miss Grace Curry; Builders Exchange, W. A. Brown; Harding P. T. A., Mrs. W. R. Leitch; Greek-American society, A. G. Papadakis; Elks lodge, Thomas McCormick.

NEW BOUNTIES OFFERED

HARRISBURG, Pa.— UP —A bounty of five cents for each crow and 25 cents for each copperhead, or rattlesnake, will be paid by the L. S. L. Sportsmen's association of Franklin county, according to an announcement.

Lodge to Hear Cerrito Pastor

Rev. J. H. N. Williams of the El Cerrito Community church will speak this evening before members and guests of McKinley lodge of Masons.

His subject will be "Lest We Forget."

The address will begin at eight o'clock and there will be no lodge meeting.

MOVING HERE

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hamilton are moving from Danville to Richmond. Hamilton has obtained a position here.

CROCKETT CLUB STILL IN RACE

In one of the fastest games ever played in the Inter-Refinery league the C and H of Crockett maintained their place in the pennant fight with the Associated Flying A's of Avon. Their victims were the ever fighting Union 76 nine of Oleum who entered the 1933 league under great handicap.

They were defeated, 5 to 2, but threatened all through the game and almost came within striking distance of tying the score in the seventh.

Union opened the first and went out in order, but Van Arsdale for the C. and H. in the first hit a home run to center field that cleared the fence. Swanstrom [illegible] in this inning also, but did not score.

Union tied it 1 to 1 in the first of the second when Mazzert singled down the third base line and then came in when Wise followed with a double.

C. and H. scored three in their half of the second and from then on were never headed. Marty Tierney led off with a home run into left field that was a well hit ball.

Fish Conservation Bill Signed by Jim

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30. (UP) Conservation of various species of sea fish was assured when Governor Rolph signed a bill yesterday prohibiting sale of the fish for two months each year.

The measure prohibits sale of white sea bass, barracuda and yellow tail for the two months' spawning season.

The restrictive period was set for June and July for sea bass and yellow-tail; July and August for barracuda. The act does not become effective until 1934.

CURFEW CANNON SILENT

VANCOUVER, B. C.—UP—Vancouver's historic old curfew cannon is no more. Economy has forced the dominion to eliminate the $1200 appropriation to buy powder for the weapon which for 40 years had closed each day promptly at 9 p. m.

Around the Sacks With the Bushers

With the third round of the N. C. tournament under way, the Rodeo Longo Tanovitz nine and the Petaluma Merchants battle for the right to remain in the group of final competitors.

Rodeo opened in the tourney by defeating Robaks 5 to 4 the opening night and then gave the Alameda Elks honors on Saturday night when they booted everything but the waterbucket.

Rodeo is still considered one of the strongest teams in the league and they are expected to put 'the ole' game in the bag by defeating Petaluma.

* * *

Manager Arvid Pauly of the Rodeo team is expected to use Bob Hurst, former Coast leaguer against Petaluma as Hurst seems to be the most experienced in the line-up in regard to night baseball.

Gunner Moore and Buzz March will be used if Hurst runs into any trouble.

Bud Fitzgerald, Rodeo second sacker, the most improved and sensational infielder of the tournament has earned himself a permanent position in the Rodeo infield and at the present time is considered the most valuable man on the team. Fitzgerald has come through great in the first two games and has been playing inspired ball. He connected with four blows in the first games and any hitter would be proud of himself to hit as clean as Bud did.

* * *

Harry Downey and John Quill the "Damon and Pythias" of the team will be out in center and left. Both boys are playing great ball and their hitting and fielding has attracted plenty of attention.

Bill Smaker will catch Hurst and Red Porter will be at the initial sack. Porter and Smaker did not hit in the first game but went great against the Alameda Elks on Saurday night. Rodeo is anxious to beat and Petaluma and to redeem themselves in a pairing with the Elks again.

The weather is great at the park evenings and the crowds are doubling each night.

* * *

A feature game will be between Central Banks and the Stockton Merchants. This is the third meeting of these two teams. Their first game went 3 to 3 to tie in 12 innings. Bob Cozad of Stockton pitched a no run, no hit game for eight and one third innings only to have the Banks tie the game up in the last of the ninth.

In their second meeting the Banks won 8 to 7 with Stockton protesting the game. The play which authorized the protest was one of a most serious nature. Umpire Moore made the decision on the play and the Association upheld his decision thereby discarding the Stockton protest. This game will be a battle as there is bad blood between the teams and most important is the fact, that it is an elimination game.

Square Deal Malts and Tallant Tubbs, double winners in the tournament meet in the opener at 5:30.

Banks and Stockton start at 7:30 with Rodeo and Petaluma in the final act of the evening at 9:30.

BALL GAME TIME TABLE

Following is the schedule for tonight's games in the North State Baseball tournament at the Oakland Coast League park in Emeryville:

5:30, Square Deal Malts vs. Tallant Tubbs.

7:30, Stockton Merchants vs. Central Banks (elimination)

9:30, Rodeo Tanovitz Longo vs. Petaluma (elimination)

Frosh Squad at Moraga Carries Lots of Weight

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE, Aug. 30. The 1933 Saint Mary's frosh squad as indicated by advance reports from the athletic office will be one of the heaviest and most versatile of recent yearling teams.

Heading a formidable list of candidates will be several out of state prep stars including Abe Zittleton 214 pound tackle from Oklahoma; Johnny Rigler and Mallie Morse, halves from Utah, Don Miller, 185 pound tackle, and Dick Ruch, 215 pound guard both from Washington, and Joe Redd 6 foot 3½ inch end from Texas who weighs in at 190 pounds.

Heading the list of former San Francisco prepsters is Nick Holoski, 220 pound tackle and three times all-city man from Galileo. Pete Jambruno from Sacred Heart, Slattery and Summers from Mission and Passantino from Galileo are the other San Francisco freshmen who have signed up.

A potential frosh line would include such weighty men as the following: Lubo Popovitch, 185 and Joe MacDonald 210, guards; Dennis Keran 225, and Jerry Dennerlin 222, tackles; Al Young 180 and Jim Austin 195, ends; Martin Kordick, 205, center.

LOCAL CLUB ELIMINATED IN TOURNEY

The Richmond Produce team was eliminated on Wednesday night by the strong 30th Infantry team of San Francisco by a score of 11 to 1. This was Richmond's last chance to stay in the Northern California tournament but their team was badly weakened by the loss of a few stellar players.

Missing was Bill Gualdoni, scrappy catcher who was seriously injured in Oakland when he was struck by a car Sunday evening in Oakland. Bill is convalescing in the Merritt hospital and his condition is pronounced as very serious.

Harry Green, former Hollywood star was also out of the lineup. His hitting was missed a great deal.

Bill Schmidt started the game for Richmond and hooked up against Helm for the Soldiers. Schmidt went out in the sixth when the Soldiers scored three runs.

Corazzo replaced him but gave way to Jiggs Wright in the eighth when the Soldiers scored four.

The lone Richmond run came in the seventh. Prolo led off with a single and was forced by Wickesser at second base. Scarsella singled to send Wickesser to third. Hildebrand scored him with a long fly to center.

Haverty was the leading hitter of the game getting a triple, double and two singles in five times at bat.

Rielly of the Soldiers also hit three for four.

Scarsella led the Richmond nine with two singles in three times at the plate. He also played a great game at first base.

SNOOKERS TO MEET CABBIES HERE SUNDAY

By CHARLES GLUM

When the City Recreation "Snookers" meet the fast Luxor Cab Company of San Francisco next Sunday at the First Street park they will be the only team in the Eastbay playing with the exception of those teams competing in the Northern California Baseball Manager's Association tournament at Oakland.

The "Snookers" face just about the fastest talent San Francisco has to offer in semi-pro abseball circles and as Manager Schimptf is anxious to discover how some of his players will match up against the best of competition for the forthcoming winter league his scheduling of the Luxor Cabs seems to be a smart move.

The City Recreation team is planning to enter the Oakland Winter League and it is their promise that Richmond will be represented by the strongest club ever as they will have two Coast League pitchers on their staff and a catcher recently released by the San Francisco Seals.

Little "Berly" Horne who has blazed quiet a trail for the Sacramento Senators will be back and Berly's fast one commands a lot of respect in this vicinity.

Sunday's lineup for the Snookers will include several changes and even though we tried to persuade Artie Schimpft, scrappy manager of the Snookers to make public these changes we were unable to do so.

Elks Take Lead In Tournament; Stage Big Show

The ever lucky Alameda Elks went into the lead of the league when they defeated the S. P. Stores in the featured game of the evening by a score of 10 to 2.

Preceding the game the Alameda Elks put on a show that included a bathing beauty revue entitled the "[illegible] of the [illegible]." The act drew a great hand and many laughs with the [illegible] donkey winning the first prize, a coveted trophy.

The S. P. Stores scored first when they scored in the second on a walk to Basso and a single by Clifford.

The Elks took advantage of the [illegible] in the third and went ahead when three runs scored on one hit.

S. P. came back in the last of the third and scored one to make the game interesting. Labetich and Madrona singled with Labetich scoring.

The Elks went on to the sixth and scored two and then duplicated in the seventh to hold a most decided edge. This was the end of Gasich who had relieved Frank Peacock in the second.

S. P. Stores were determined to score, but some bad balls on strikes by Umpire Young, caused them to protest. [illegible] Morrow, Stores catcher protested so loudly when he struck out that he was ordered from the game, the first player to be ousted from any game in the tournament.

Fagundas went in to relieve in the eighth and he was greeted by a triple and three singles before he could retire the side. The Elks ended up by finally scoring three to run the score 10 to 2.

Pudgy Gould pitched well for the Elks allowing but four hits and striking out five batters to face him. He also starred at bat with two hits in four tries.

Wetzler, T. Bill and Hardy also hit two for the Elks.

The whole of the S. P. Stores infield starred turning in four double plays.

16 LETERMEN GREET MADIGAN AT ST. MARY'S

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Aug. 30.—Sixteen lettermen were included among the squad of sixty-six that greeted Head Coach Edward P. "Slip" Madigan at the annual grid signup held on the Galloping Gaels' campus early this week.

The lettermen returning for the 1933 season are: ends, G. Canrinus, F. Canrinus and Pennino; tackles, Jorgenson, Gilbert and Baader; guards, Schaefer, Gerardin and Carenter; center, Yates; quarter, Ahern; halves, Wilson, Nichelini and Baat; fullbacks, Dodson and Partee.

In addition to the non-lettermen veterans from last year's squad, thirty-two members of the powerful 1932 freshman crop have signed up for varsity.

According to latest reports, two men of former experience who will not see action this fall are Garbo, fullback, and Danilovich, center.

While practice does not start until the regular conference date, September 16, the Gaels are receiving daily instructions in the famed Rockne style of play from Coach Madigan.

Giants, Braves Mix Things in Crucial Series

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—UP—Six full games separated the New York Giants, leaders of the National league, and the second place Boston Braves tonight on the eve of their "crucial" six game series at Boston, following victories by each today.

Both clubs won out in the ninth inning, the Giants shading St. Louis 5 to 4, and the Braves nosing out Cincinnati 3 to 2.

The Giants won out when Lefty O'Doul singled in the ninth with the bases loaded, scoring Moore with the winning run. O'Doul and Manager Bill Terry drove out homers during a four run spurt in the fourth that tied the count.

Meanwhile, the rallying Pittsburgh Pirates replaced Chicago at third position by registering their fifth consecutive victory, a 5 to 1 win over the Phillies, while the Cubs split a doubleheader with Brooklyn. Tommy Thevenow had a perfect day at bat with four hits. This left the Pirates one and a half games behind Boston.

Chicago dropped to fourth place after beating Brooklyn 2 to 1 in the opener, but losing 7 to 3, in the second contest. The Cubs made their two runs in the second inning to win the first game, when Bill Jurges' single drove in Moslof and Hendrick, giving Charley Root a mound victory over Hal Thurston.

In the second game, Brooklyn bunched 13 hits for three runs in the second and four in the seventh innings.

No American League games were scheduled.

HELENA, Mont.—UP—At existing market prices, Montana wool growers will gross approximately $15,400,000 on their 1933 clip—or double the $7,750,000 they received for the 1932 wool crop, Murray E. Stebbins of the Montana Woolgrowers' Association, estimates.

RACING AGAINST TIME ON JUNGO LAKE

Speeding over the absolutely flat surface of Jungo Lake, 40 miles northwest of Winnemucca, Nevada, two cars were used in a series of tests for speed, officially conducted by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, using seven major brands of motor fuel. At the conclusion of these runs the Contest Board certified that Standard gasoline in competition with six other products was unsurpassed for speed. The upper photograph shows E. D. Thompson, left, and L. M. Bussert on the course aiding surveyors; below, Bussert tries to find a little shade from the broiling desert sun by using an umbrella.

Speaking Of Sports

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—UP—As the 1933 football season nears, coaches of Philadelphia football teams are looking over their stock with gloom, for graduation depleted their ranks and they will have to depend upon sophomore material.

Adequate football machines will have to be built around a handful of veterans at all three of the major Philadelphia colleges, Pennsylvania, Temple and Villanova.

Trying Campaigns

The coaches face trying campaigns in filling the gaps with second and third stringers from last year and the greenest of sophomores.

Harry Stuhldreher, Villanova's mentor, seems to have fared the best of the three coaches. He has some fine material coming up and retains more men from last season's team than do Harvey Harman, the Red and Blue tutor, or "Pop" Warner, Temple's new football instructor, who is regarded as the premier coach of the present day gridiron.

Warner will have a few leftovers from last year, but, as a whole, he will have to depend largely upon the new men. He has a somewhat better-than-average group of second year men, but he will face the task of teaching them a new manner of play. And it may not be until late in the fall that his team will grasp the system and round into winning shape.

Coaches Watch Warner

His experiment will be watched with keen interest, for the old fox of the gridiron has a reputation for accomplishing the impossible and his spectacular style of offensive football will be looked forward to with expectation.

Pop Warner will probably have to develop a new backfield, while new ends, a center and tackle will also have to be discovered. However it is believed that before Temple plays its first game, "Pop" will dip into his bag of football tricks and like a magician, will produce a robbit or two to run rings around the opposition.

Mayor Balks at Ball Park Deal

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—UP—Rebuilding the Rainier Valley Baseball park for the Seattle Baseball club, on city credit, does not meet the approval of Mayor John F. Dore, he indicated today.

The ordinance passed by the city council does not sufficiently safeguard taxpayers from eventually footing the bill he declared.

Under the ordinance, the council voted to rebuild the stands, which were destroyed by fire 11 months ago, with a loan of $50,000 under the NRA.

The park would be leased to the baseball club for enough rental eventually to meet the loan and pay expenses.

Crockett, Hayward to Clash Saturday

CROCKETT, Aug. 30.—Because of the hardened condition of the local grounds, the opening practice game of John Swett Union High school with Hayward High school will be held at Hayward, Coach Blaine L. Stevens announced.

The game is slated for Saturday. Forty-five Crockett youths have turned out for practice. Stevens is shaping up the squad with the assistance of Frank F. Wenn Jr. and Henry Guglielmana, former local grid star.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver disgorge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantlax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the torpid, lazy liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, sallow skin, sour stomach, gas, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantlax is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants — Nature's own remedies—that act in a mild, easy way without weakening or irritating the organs. Try it tonight. Large bottle $1 at any good drug store.

Democrats All Set for Outing At Bowl Sunday

MARTINEZ, Aug. 30.—The largest crowd ever to attend a political meeting in Contra Costa county is what the Progressive Democrats are claiming for the attendance at their Democrat picnic which is to be held in La Honda bowl on the San Pablo dam road Sunday September 3.

Over 2000 tickets have been sold two weeks before the picnic, the election of a "Miss Democracy" causing additional interest throughout the county.

The picnic is being sponsored by the combined Progressive Democrat clubs of the county with a joint picnic committee of over fifty delegates and an executive committee of fifteen, composed of two from each town and C. A. "Cappy" Ricks, Martinez, chairman.

This committee has met often and long and they claim they have perfected a basket picnic that will give a family a happy outing as well as give those inclined towards the new deal a chance to hear famous politicians and meet with other new dealers from all parts of central California.

Besides the honoring of Miss [illegible] prominent Federal officials [illegible] two political speeches, many Democrat politicians [illegible] will be introduced.

Mrs. Karloskie, 72 years of age, passed away at her home yesterday following a short illness. She was born in Poland and had lived in Crockett for 20 years.

She leaves her husband, Edward, two sons, John Sitkoskie of San Francisco and Andrew Sitkoskie of Crockett; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Hall of Illinois, two grandchildren, and six great grandchildren.

Rites will probably be held in Crockett.

Wallace Signs 1st NRA Probe

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—UP—Encouraged by a District of Columbia supreme court decision upholding constitutionality of the agricultural adjustment act, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace tonight signed the first show cause order charging violation of a licensing agreement under the emergency recovery program.

The case, which may lead to further tests of the recovery program, involved the Meadowmoor Dairies Inc., of Chicago.

IS THERE ENOUGH LIGHT in your home?

HOURLY COST OF LAMPS
50 watt ⅓ of 1¢
60 watt ⅜ of 1¢
100 watt ⅔ of 1¢
150 watt .98 of 1¢

YOU can make a distinct change in the appearance and comfortable livableness of your home by giving a little attention to lighting. Usually that is all that is needed, attention and thought given to proper lighting in the same measure as thought and attention is given to color schemes, furniture selection and arrangement. Proper lighting is not costly to attain if it is carefully planned for comfortable and convenient use.

Study the illustration above. It shows a common fault with lighting that may be noticed in many homes, and perhaps your home. Here is a lamp placed beside a corner of a davenport because the furniture arrangement placed a table there. The result is a limited spread of light. Proper lighting would make the entire davenport a comfortable and pleasant place in which to read or work without squinting or eyestrain.

Poor light induces eyestrain and may cause permanent harm to vision. It is also responsible for headaches, weariness, depressed feeling and nervousness.

And it costs so little to light up for cheerfulness, for comfort, for adding to the attractiveness of your home. Lamps and electricity are lower in price today than ever before... so inexpensive that every home should have all the light needed for comfort, health and safety.

Corporal Is Termed Spy

FORT SHERMAN, Canal Zone, Aug. 30—(UP)—Corporal Ralph Osman, of the United States Army, was found guilty by court martial tonight on charges of violation of the espionage act.

Osman was sentenced to dishonorable discharge and two years at hard labor. He was fined $10,000 and forfeits all pay during his period of imprisonment.

If the fine is not paid, Osman must serve 18 years more.

Sentence was passed by Col. J. V. Heidt, president of the court. The military trial, one of the few held by the United States Army since the World War, closed shortly after noon.

Sergeant Ralph E. Dietz, mail orderly, had testified he saw Osman take $50 from letters from time to time, and estimated the corporal had received $400 in this manner. He was charged with possessing military secrets.

Osman denied being a communist, but admitted he was in sympathy with their cause.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30—(UP)—The things you should know about Bette Davis—

She said she wouldn't bleach her hair but she did. She said she wouldn't wear trousers—but she does.

She wore a flannel chest protector as a child. Her eyes are too large and her legs are too slim but she photographs like $1,000,000.

Bette was born Ruth Elizabeth Davis and has seen neither a silent picture nor Aimee Semple McPherson. She doesn't believe letters of recommendation and does believe luck is important to success.

She knows how much money she has in the bank and she once slapped a man. She looks at a women's elbows to tell her age. She does not believe a centipede has 100 legs.

She knows the names of most of the constellations, but can't remember who is vice-president. She doesn't like petunias and is not interested in Mahatma Gandhi.

She likes onion soup and once won a grocery store raffle. She likes to hear a clock tick but cannot fill a fountain pen without mussing her fingers. When undressing, she doffs shoes first.

RICHMOND HAS MYSTERY PLAY

To motion picture fans interested in the typical and familiar scenes of a motion picture studio, the current studio murder mystery "The Death Kiss," on the screen at the Richmond theatre tonight will hold more than the usual fascination of the murder mystery story.

Practically in its entirety the picture was photographed within the gates of the California Tiffany Studios, with the everday routine of the studio depicted accurately, using the studio projection rooms, makeup rooms, dressing rooms, machine shops, streets and buildings for the sets so that audiences who have never been in a studio can get a very complete idea of the inner doings of the studio.

Dealing with the murder of the leading man of the Tonart Studios, "The Death Kiss," holds suspense to the final scenes and the ultimate expose, with principal roles played by David Manners, Adrienne Ames, Bela Lugosi, Alexander Carr, John Wray, Vince Barnett, Edward Van Sloan, Harold Minjir, Wade Boteler and a score of other important actors. It was directed by Edwin L. Marin with camera work by Norbert Brodine.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given, that sealed bids will be received by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa County at the Hall of Records, Martinez, California, up to the hour of 11 o'clock A. M., on Tuesday, September 5th, 1933.

For the furnishing of all labor and materials including house moving equipment and mechanical workmanship necessary for the removal and remodelling of two (2) buildings (at present in the rear of County Court House and until recently occupied by the District Attorney and County Surveyor), in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Clerk at the Hall of Records, Martinez. (Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of the County Clerk upon the deposit of a certified check in the amount of $25.00 made payable to the County Clerk of Contra Costa County, as evidence of good faith and will be returned after bids have been considered by the Board of Supervisors. Failure of bidder to submit a proposal or return of plans and specifications, or both, will constitute grounds for forfeiture of said check at the option of the Board of Supervisors.) Notice is hereby further given that Chapter 398 of the Statutes of the State of California for the year 1931 prohibits the employment of aliens on public works and applies to this contract. Notice is hereby further given that Chapter 397 of the Statutes of the State of California for the year 1931 provides for the payment of standard wages on public works and applies to this contract.

Notice is hereby further given that the Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa County of California, in adopting plans and specifications for the work to be done, ascertained and determined that the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which the work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and also the general prevailing rate for legal holidays and overtime work are as follows, to-wit:

Carpenters	$7.20
Electricians	7.20
Building Laborers	5.00
Laborers	4.00
Plasterers	8.80
Hodcarriers	6.00
Lathers	6.80
House movers	6.40
Plumbers	8.00
Plumber's helpers	6.00
Roofers	7.20
Roofer's helpers	5.60
Sheetmetal workers	7.20
Concrete workers	5.00
Cement finishers	7.20

Foremen not less than $1.00 more than wage for particular craft.

For any craft not included in above list, the minimum per diem wage shall be the prevailing wage for the locality and shall not be less than $5.00 per day. Double time shall be paid for work on Sundays and holidays, time and a half for all overtime. This wage scale is predicated on five (5) days a week except as applying to common laborers.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check on some solvent bank, or a cash deposit in a sum equal to ten per cent of amount bid on contract, conditioned that if the contract is awarded to the party submitting the accepted bid, he will enter into a contract or contracts and furnish such bonds as may be required by said Board of Supervisors within five (5) days after notice of such award, or failing to do so, the amount of such deposit or certified check to be forfeited as liquidated damages for such failure.

All checks to be made payable to the order of the County Clerk of Contra Costa County. The proposal shall be delivered in a sealed envelopo marked "Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa County" and nature and the title of work to be done indicated thereon. Said Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa County reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive technical informalities in any bid.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa County, California.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Yesterday this pillar carried a yarn about the famous old Martinique bar, which is being taken out of the mothballs where it has lain for many years and restored to active service. But now we hear a truly depressing story of another famous, though newer, rendezvous which has just gone down for the count. It's the Type and Print club, more famous for its bedraggled cat that lived on gin and sniffed from milk than for its illustrious clientele, which included such around-towners as Heywood Broun, Percy Hammond, Frank Sullivan, Sinclair Lewis, Dorothy Parker, Joe Cook, Lee Tracy and others. Joel Sayre did much to add to its fame in his book, "A Hey on the House."

Generally considered the town's oldest speako, the Type and Print club has a very lurid past. One of the managers was a convict from Dannemora who was sent to the Bastille for stealing 250 nickels while working as a street car conductor. One of the bartenders sported a nose so red that it inspired a client to write a parody called "Noses Are Blooming in Bacardi" which decorated the bar until the city marshal closed the place the other day.

* * * *

A NEWSPAPER printer was responsible for the presence of Millie the Moocher, the cat that drank gin. He rode her to the speakeasy one night in a taxicab all the way from his aunt's home in Brooklyn. Shortly after arriving, a saucer of milk was offered Millie. She snubbed it and continued to snub good old Grade "A" for weeks until a kind-hearted patron offered her a saucer of gin. Later she developed a taste for cigarette butts.

One day a West Side gang leader told the management that he and his boys and girls wanted to throw a party in the Type and Print.

"Okay," answered the proprietor, "but keep them away from the rest of the folks."

And he did. The mobster drew a line across the floor and instructed his gangsters to stay on one side of that line. About twenty of the boys crossed over. Each and every one was promptly knocked cold by the mob chieftain, who could hit as hard as a freight train.

Strayed or Stolen

At the Lost and Found booth over in the Grand Central Station we collided with Howard Reinheimer the lawyer man. He had taken a train in from Albany the previous evening and left the tops of his Japanese pajamas in an upper berth. Had they found any pajama tops in his berth. Yes, they had, and apparently a few more items overlooked completely by the lawyer, to wit: one pair of socks, a hairbrush, bathing trunks and a package of cigarettes.

Reinheimer thanked the lady and bowed into the crowd. A few minutes later, he returned again.

"My umbrella," he said. "I left my umbrella lying here on the counter while I was talking to you. Did you find it?"

"Yes," answered the attendant, "and here's another package of cigarettes. You left those on the counter too."

And as he walked away she hollered after him:

"Got everything?"

Nation Waits On Growth of Nomo's Beard

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30—(UP)—Nomo Yakson's fate hung on his whiskers today.

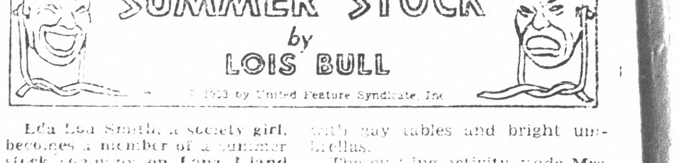
Nomo was deported, on grounds he was a Mexican. Mexican authorities refused to accept him, saying he couldn't even speak the language.

"I'm just a poor old Indian," Nomo said when he returned from a round trip to Mexico and Central America.

If he's an Indian, he won't grow a beard, immigration service experts said.

Now they're waiting to see.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—(UP)—One turkey consumes and lives on approximately 1400 grasshoppers per day and more than 8,120,000 'hoppers die daily in the craws of 5800 turkeys ranging on the William Kittridge ranch on the Upper Klamath marsh, according to figures obtained by C. A. Henderson, county agricultural agent.



SUMMER STOCK

by LOIS BULL

© 1933 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Eda Lou Smith, a society girl, becomes a member of a summer stock company on Long Island which loses its theater when it fails to make expenses. She and the company juvenile, Tad Emerson, go to see the wealthy old Mrs. Thomas Treemonte, an eccentric recluse reputed to have been a famous belle in her youth, and ask her to donate the use of an old pier on her estate where the stock company can set up a theater on a barge. When Mrs. Treemonte discovers that Tad is the son of her girlhood sweetheart and that he is eager to have a play he has written produced by the stock company, she promises lavish financial aid.

CHAPTER XXVI

FROM then on, it was as though a good fairy had waved her magic wand over the heads of the Boothe-Hardwicke Players and told them to wish for anything. On the day after Eda Lou's and Tad's strange visit to Mrs. Treemonte, a conference was held at her home. Her attorney was present and, upon being introduced to Tad, seemed to feel that his elderly client's wishes were not quite as mad as he had thought at first. He knew the story of her early marriage and felt it only natural that she should take an interest in this son of her girlhood sweetheart.

Of course, John and Eleanora had been astounded when Tad broke the news, and could hardly believe their good luck. In fact, they were admittedly skeptical until the papers were signed, a trust for the Boothe-Hardwicke Barge Players arranged, and free use of the pier given with orders from Mrs. Treemonte to her attorney that he must co-operate with the company in every way.

The mystery of the Treemonte mansion had been dispelled. Instead of the ogre-like woman all had anticipated, they found Mrs. Treemonte to be a charming little old lady who had set aside memories and sentimental dreams for the thoroughly satisfying reality of accomplishing something for the son of the man she had loved.

She only insisted that not too much fuss be made in the press and that she be protected from intrusions. However, she also insisted that on the new programs she be listed at the head of the patroness list. "That will establish my connection with the players definitely. It is only mysterious rumor that makes for unwelcome publicity."

THE ensuing days sped by in a kaleidoscope of activity. A large barge had been located, bought and towed to the foot of the pier. The refitting of the barge into a modern little theater went ahead with unbelievable speed.

Herbert Lyons congratulated Eda Lou on the miracle and, within a few days, the governors of the club had authorized him to take an option on a block of seats for three performances a week, which would be at the disposal of club members.

Mrs. Smith had bowed to the inevitable. Her hope had been that the players would have to admit defeat. But at the announcement that the mysterious Mrs. Treemonte had become interested in them, she realized that they were no longer a fly-by-night troupe, but an established fact which she must accept.

She had been observing Eda Lou's growing interest in Tad, not without a tiny tug of worry. For, though she knew Tad to be socially quite acceptable, he was so terribly poor. And soon Eda Lou would have so much money of her own. In her heart, she began to fear what might happen. Since the plans for the theater's reopening had got under way, she had seen practically nothing of Eda Lou, who was frantically busy night and day.

ONCE, shortly before the opening, Eda Lou took her mother down to see what was going on. The theater aboard the barge was nearly complete. A gangplank led to it from the pier, which was being magically transformed into an open-air refreshment garden, with gay tables and bright umbrellas.

The bustling activity made Mrs. Smith understand more than ever the magic power it held over Eda Lou. After the visit to the barge, Mrs. Smith and Eda Lou walked back to the car.

"Isn't it wonderful, mother!" Eda Lou was glowing with happiness. "I'm so happy for Tad—his dream coming true before our eyes."

Her mother looked at her. "You are growing very fond of Tad, aren't you, my dear?" she said.

They looked into each other's eyes as Eda Lou replied, "There's something so vital, so thrilling about it all. Think of it—a few weeks ago, Tad was just Tad Emerson, an actor. In a week, he will be Theodore Emerson, the playwright, director, actor. It will be the beginning for him. Of course, mother, Tad and I are great friends."

"Only friends, dear?"

"Yes, mother. Sometimes I wish—and only love." She sighed. "I meant more to him than—just a pal. But the theater is his one love." Her mother said softly, "I'm glad, dear."

EDA LOU stopped still. She looked at her mother frankly. "Mother, if our friendship ever became—anything deeper—would you mind?"

"I don't want you ever to be unhappy, Eda Lou. He's a poor boy, dear, and some day, not so very far from now—on your next birthday—you're going to be very, very rich. You must never forget that. I think Tad would be too proud ever to fall in love with a girl as rich as you will be."

"But, mother, some day he'll be on top of the heap. If I thought my money would ever come between our friendship, I'd give it away—every cent!"

"My dear, you can't do that."

"But why are we getting so serious about something that will never happen?" said Eda Lou. "To Tad, I'm just someone who's getting to love his world of the theater quite as much as he has loved it. Well, mother dear, you won't mind if I don't go back to the house with you, will you? I've so many things to do. And I'm so glad you came down to see how we're getting along."

Eda Lou waved a gay good-bye as her mother's car drew away from the pier. Just then, a funny little rattletrap of a car snorted into sight. It was Tad.

EDA LOU waited and, as he leaped out, he looked with pride at the aged vehicle.

"Isn't it pretty slick? Fifty dollars—and it actually runs. Listen, Eda Lou, have you heard the perfectly marvelous news? We're completely sold out for the first three performances. Gosh! It's so much like a dream that I'm scared to death I'll wake up and find it's not true."

"But, Tad, you know it's true."

"And to think it never would have happened if you hadn't had a perfectly mad idea — and carried it through quite against my best intuitions."

They were walking down the pier now toward the barge. The panorama of the miracle spread before them. Tad waved his hand.

"Look at it—thousands spent to justify my hopes, my dreams. Gosh! Sometimes I get so scared. What if my play is a flop?"

Eda Lou answered quickly. "Tad, dear, nothing you believe in so deeply could possibly fail. It's just the beginning of everything."

"And do you realize that the beginning would never have been if it hadn't been for you?"

"Don't be ridiculous, Tad. This all began the day you were born. It was in the stars for you to succeed. If it hadn't happened now, it would have happened some other day. I do believe, Tad, you're getting playwright's jitters."

She laughed gaily and greeted Eleanora and John, who had strolled toward them from the barge. Both Eda Lou and Tad realized suddenly that only this intervention had stopped something further from being said. There was something that Tad had been trying to say, and now the moment was gone.

Then they began chatting casually, the four of them, about some new scenery that had just arrived. They had just time to look it over before dashing into town for a scheduled rehearsal in the Town Hall.

HAWAII FAVORS CODE, WAIVES ITS EXEMPTION

HONOLULU, Aug. 30—UP—Hawaiian agriculturists and industrialists today refused to take advantage of an opportunity to avoid shortening hours and raising wages in accordance with the president's reemployment agreement.

Shortly after Honolulu citizens learned Hugh Johnson had decided to exempt Hawaii from the blanket re-employment code and NRA codes, the largest meeting of business and agricultural leaders since World War days met here.

In resolutions, white and Chinese leaders vigorously protested any plan to exempt Hawaii from the mainland program. It was understood the Japanese Chamber of Commerce planned similar action.

General Johnson in a letter to Secretary of the Interior Ickes said that due to the different hours of labor and wages prevailing in territories, the NRA did not plan to extend the president's reemployment agreement to them.

"It is obvious," Johnson wrote, "that they cannot be regulated on the same basis as industries in the United States."

Hawaii leaders said, is anxious to use the reemployment agreement to abolish the dual white and Oriental wage scales now existing.

Many felt the NRA program offered and opportunity for Hawaii to achieve a complete American status in relation to labor conditions. They declared following the president's program would be the greatest step toward complete Americanization in the territory's history.

"This meeting," a resolution said, "was duly called by the president's unemployment relief committee for Hawaii. It goes on record as staunchly in favor of complete enforcement of the NRA and president reemployment agreement for Hawaii and declares its intention, so far as this committee is concerned, of proceeding with the organization of industry and business in Hawaii."

S. F. Court Clerk Commits Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30—F. M. Koenig, 43, a clerk in the municipal courts, ended his life with a pistol yesterday because he was despondent over ill health. He had been on leave from the city hall for several months because of sickness.

He shot himself at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Koenig, 3543 Nineteenth street, dying soon after in the Mission Emergency hospital.

More Cars Are Registered Now

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30.—UP—A sharp increase in motor vehicle registration has accompanied accelerated business conditions in California, Theodore Roche, director of the motor vehicle department, said today.

For April, May, June and July 23,486 more cars have been registered than for the corresponding period in 1932.

WOODEN QUARTERS BURN

ABERDEEN, Wash.—UP—Approximately 4000 in redeemed or unsold wooden quarters were burned publicly here a few days ago. As a depression measure, the Aberdeen Chamber of Commerce sponsored coinage of wooden money in 25-cent denominations, redeemable at face value. Due to the interest they aroused in curiosity hunters, who purchased them without intention of cashing them, the project netted some $300.

Know Your Firms

Local Trucking Co. Is Well Equipped

In this daily column of "Know Your City's Business Firms" we have told you about a number of various lines of local business institutions and what they are doing in the way of serving our needs. We feel that each of these firms we have presented are highly specialized in their particular line of endeavor and in patronizing them we feel that it pays to trade at home.

In this edition we give you an adequate insight of who, why and where of one of our local business firms, whom we know is serving the public in a highly specialized manner for the lines they handle, P. F. Johnson and Son Trucking company, whose offices are located at Point Richmond, Walter J. Johnson is the manager.

This firm is in the draying, contract hauling and storage business, and has consequently built up a large business in Richmond, Contra Costa county and the East Bay district.

The equipment of P. F. Johnson and Son Draying company consists of modern large trucks and trailers that have a large capacity for hauling of all kinds, and no job is too large or too small for them to go anywhere at any time and take the work on contract or day basis. Free estimates are cheerfully given and it is almost a certainty that your needs can be met by this local concern.

Storage facilities for the storing of grains and other commodities are large and conveniently located for transportation consignments.

The trucking business of this concern covers not only here locally but throughout California, Oregon, Utah thus bringing local activity and employing local men.

Walter J. Johnson the manager is a prominent citizen of Richmond, and has for a number of years held prominent city positions as councilman and is now mayor of our city.

In bringing to the attention of our readers of our local business firms and industries and what their activity means to Richmond and Contra Costa county, each one plays an important part, P. F. Johnson and Son Trucking Company is helping to make Richmond an industrial center of activity. When you want anything in draying, contract hauling or storage then call Richmond 680 or 681 for service.

Berkeley Locates Jobs for 1313 Men

BERKELEY, Aug. 30—From May 8 to August 19, 1313 unemployed men of Berkeley were provided with jobs by the city of Berkeley. A report made to the council by City Manager Hollis R. Thompson shows that 380 men were used in maintaining fire trails in the hills while 933 others were engaged in cleaning lots and sidewalk areas.

Moreover, 195 gallons of gasoline were used in transporting the men to and from work, Thompson reported.

EEL CHUTES LEGALIZED

HARRISBURG, Pa.—UP—Eel chutes are now legal equipment for eel fishermen on certain streams in Pennsylvania. A law, enacted by the state legislature, designating streams where eel chutes may be used to take eels from the water, became effective August 1.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN
The Favor of Other Men
Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.
But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.
Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. Jim Bites Back At Scribes In Hanging Battle

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30—UP—Governor Rolph today delivered a torrid attack upon his newspaper critics, stung by an editorial criticising his stand on the Jack D. Green case.

A Sacramento newspaper editorially said that if Green is executed his epitaph should read "hanged for political expediency."

Green is scheduled to be hanged September 15 on conviction of murdering Hugh Crowley, Los Angeles police lieutenant, during a theatre holdup. Green's partner, Jack Regan, who fired the shot that killed Crowley, has already been executed.

"They say that if Green hangs my claim of being a humanitarian governor is lost," Rolph shouted.

"If anybody can get the Supreme court to recommend clemency I'll grant it. But the Supreme Court feels Green should die. The murder of Crowley was one of the coldest blooded in the history of this state. There are no extenuating circumstances. No official agency to whom this has has been referred has intervened.

"They can't browbeat me. Here's one governor that has enough courage to stand by his guns.

Some people don't know what respect to the highest office in this state means. They criticise and attack me, even as they have done the same to every other governor until they get him out of office."

Alvah D. Westtall, 25, and Violette S. Caswell, 21, both of Pinole, have applied for a marriage license in Martinez.

Hunters Must be Identified

HARRISBURG, Pa.—UP—A proof of identity must now be established by applicants for hunters' licenses in Pennsylvania. The state legislature imposed the restrictly to prevent non-residents and persons denied permission to hunt in the state from procuring a resident hunter's license.

REPEAL VOTED BY WASHINGTON

SEATTLE, Aug. 30—Repealists were safely past the twenty-fourth milestone in their drive toward elimination of the prohibition amendment from the Federal Constitution today, with Washington joining the wet parade by a smashing majority in Tuesday's election.

Only one legislative district, the ninth, in rural Eastern Washington, was in the dry column on the basis of available returns.

The district will have only two of the 99 delegates who will meet October 3 at state capital in Olympia to ratify formally the decision reached by the voters at the polls yesterday.

The popular vote from 1924 of the state's 2692 precincts rolled up a total of 316,064 wet ballots to 132,369 cast for dry candidates.

The statewide total, however, had not bearing on the outcome, as delegates were chosen by legislative districts, a provision which wet leaders bitterly attacked during the campaign.

The state bone dry law passed in 1917, was repealed last November by a majority of approximately 133,000.

High School Pupils Increase

HARRISBURG, Pa.—UP—The public demand for high school training has caused scholastic enrollment to increase 18 times as fast as population in the period from 1900 to 1930, according to Department of Public Instruction statistics. High school enrollment increased about 1000 percent in Pennsylvania in the 30 year period, a report showed.

Even Slight Injuries to The Head Are Always Dangerous

DR. CHRISMAN

AN ITEM in this morning's paper tells of a five-year-old boy who was struck down by a bicyclist in the street in front of his home, and three hours later died of a fracture of the skull. His mother had heard him crying and upon investigation found him sitting on the sidewalk. He stated that two young men on bicycles had hit him, that they had picked him up and set him on the curb, and had then ridden away. There is no doubt that the bicyclists thought that he was not badly hurt. The boy said he was not afraid of bicycles and did not attempt to get out of the way.

* * *

ANY fall when the head strikes a concrete pavement is very likely to be serious. We cannot put much credence in the story of this boy as it is very common knowledge that anyone struck on his head is rendered temporarily unconscious and will have no remembrance of events happening from five to fifteen minutes before the accident, and often for a much longer period.

* * *

THERE is an old saying in surgery that "no injury to the brain is so slight that it may not cause death and none so serious that it cannot recover." This is so nearly a positive truth that we consider any injury to the head causing any unconsciousness, too serious to be taken lightly, and we care for it as carefully as if the bone were crushed so that anyone would know it to be very serious. It is not necessary that there be any outward signs of injury. There need not be a bump or cut or flow of blood, to make it serious.

* * *

ONE great brain surgeon says that any injury to the head, causing even the slightest unconsciousness, should be kept in bed and absolutely quiet for at least three weeks. He states that his own son, who was hurt in a football game, was kept in bed for six weeks, even though he showed no signs of severe injury. We all have read in the papers of a boy or girl being hurt in some game, getting up and finishing the game, and going home apparently well, but dying soon afterward from fractured skull and hemorrhage of the brain.

* * *

THE skull is a hard, inelastic box which houses the brain and does not allow much room for expansion or swelling. We can have a slight crack which tears a little blood vessel of the brain but does not show any apparent injury. If the person so injured goes on and plays or walks, the hemorrhage increases and soon causes pressure. This may cause paralysis of some of the muscles of locomotion or of those controlling the heart and lungs. Consequences may develop hours and sometimes days after the accident occurs. This is especially likely to occur in injuries to the base of the brain.

* * *

THE skull does not need to be fractured to cause serious trouble, especially in children whose bones are elastic and may spring inward from a blow. This may tear a blood vessel or cause injury to the brain tissue with no external signs, such as bleeding of the ears and nose, which occurs in more severe injuries. A blow on the top of the head may do a great deal of damage to outer brain tissue, but, because the skull is opened, the pressure is relieved and no great harm done.

* * *

THREE years ago a little girl patient received a cut on the side of the head in an automobile accident. She was taken to a hospital where the wound was cleaned and sewed up. Her mother said she was a little dazed after the accident and did not cry much while the doctor was sewing the wound. The mother was told to take the little girl home and let her play. In just twenty-four hours the child was taken with convulsions and high fever. These were followed later by paralysis of one side and eventually by frequent epileptic attacks.

* * *

THE X-Ray never showed a visible fracture. After two years she was cured by the removal of a small adhesion of the skull lining to the brain tissue at a point three inches distant from the outside point of injury. If an operation had been attempted at the time the trouble probably would not have been found, and death might have resulted.

GIRLS CAN KEEP VACATION GLOW IN THEIR FACES

By JACQUELINE HUNT

MISS HUNT

WELCOME HOME, vacationists! Back to your typewriters and your classes you march with firm, gay steps. Vacations are over! But take a peep at yourselves in your mirrors—were your vacations all you expected of them? Are your waistlines slim, your skin sun-kissed and your eyes clear and sparkling with health?

Undoubtedly, some of you found glorious adventures and romance on your Indian Summer vacations. Perhaps you wonder if the romance will continue after you get back to town and your eyes are dulled from weariness, your waistline flabby from sitting at a typewriter or desk from morning to night, and your rich sun-tan faded to a lemon-yellow hue. But why mention such dreadful things? Just to remind you that you can forestall such things if you get to work right now to keep yourself fresh and trim.

Make Regular Schedule

There'll have to be a beauty time-budget since working girls and college girls have so little time to devote to their loveliness. And you had better make it a weekly schedule rather than a daily one. Of course, there are little things like cleansing the skin, that are so important you must do them every single night, but the big things in the beauty game lend themselves to a weekly schedule.

Plan a simple, special beauty treatment for each week day, and stick to your schedule as closely as you can. There will be nights when you have special dates, or nights when you are very tired, or have to study late, and you will have to skip a treatment—but make it up as soon as you can. Do every single thing on your schedule every week, even though you must double up some nights.

A Special Bath

On Monday nights, for instance, you might plan a special bath. Of course, there is a daily tub or shower, but on one night a week, preferably on Monday, after a busy week-end of dates, you will find a special bath freshening and restful. Make it as warm as you can stand, pour in your nicest smelling bath salts and don't be stingy with them. Massage a little warm oil or softening cream into your face and skin, then slip into the tub and have a good soaking. Next soap your skin, or give it a good scrubbing with one of those fragrant bath mitts that I'm sure I've told you about, then rinse in cool water—and so to bed. Nice and early, if you can, to insure a perfect rest.

On Tuesday nights give your eyes special attention. They will be grateful for it, if you read a lot. Start with some scientific eye exercises to relax them, then give them a special bath with boric acid dissolved in warm water. Wash the eyes first in the warm solution, then chill a portion with a small lump of ice and wash again. On this night you can pluck away the stray hairs in voru eyebrows, and massage a little petroleum jelly into them and the lashes to encourage their growth.

The Weekly Manicure

Wednesday nights you might set aside for your weekly manicure and massage treatments for your hands — and perhaps your feet. On Thursday nights, your shampoo. Remember, several applications of liquid soap and a thorough rinsing. For Friday (or Saturday, if you have a date that night) plan a facial—a very simple one if your skin is in good condition. You might take this occasion to use a bleach paste if you want to avoid any yellowish after-effects of your sun-tan.

On Saturdays and Sundays, double up on exercises to keep your figure trim. They don't have to be routine exercises, you know—but play tennis, dance, hike, ride, canoe, or do any exciting thing you can manage to crowd into your week-end. Only by this regular care can you keep the life and glow of summer in your eyes and skin.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "When a man wears a wedding ring, which finger does he wear it on? I have seen it worn on the same finger as worn by the bride. Also on the little finger of the left hand.

—Henry A."

ANSWER: "The wedding ring is usually worn on the little finger by American men. The custom is more common in Europe where, at double-ring wedding ceremonies, the bride places the ring upon the bridegroom's third finger.

SPEAKING OF STYLE

By IRENE VAIL

The tunic line is suggested in the black dull faille crepe dress with coat of heavy white ottoman at left.

The faintest hint of color is afforded by the embroidered rings of the black yoke finished with the [illegible] flange; the dress is black woolen.

New York—Mention of architectural influences creep into fashion copy every so often.

Even with the hosts of other influences mentioned in connection with the new season, we find references to turret effects, and shoulders that have the precision one might expect of material cut on a T square.

No matter what may happen to frocks not intended for sports, either the sort you wear participating in them, or as an onlooker, lines are going to remain straight. Nobody wants to run the chance of looking like an amateur, even an amateur spectator.

One must have a knowledge that one is complying with the rules, even as a spectator; and what could be more against all the rules, or against horse sense, than fluffy, fluttery clothes at [illegible] events?

The ruling is that bodices are built to the throat line, and that whether or not you have a collar you really must have a tie. Dresses of neutral tones, mixtures of the new grays or browns, are made the more attractive by a change of tie. So when you're planning your frock, bear that in mind.

A bit of jade, or even some of the other greens, is stunning with either brown or gray. And from present indications you are likely to be choosing either one or the other for early autumn. Naturally the woodsy colors are good at this season.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that you are done with sports clothes because summer's gone for. There are plenty of outdoor race meets, polo, not to mention football.

Tasty Dishes for Today

EGGS DELICIOUS FOR ANY MENU

By JUDITH WILSON

THE present low price of eggs reminds us that there must be at least a thousand ways to serve eggs apart from dishes in which they are merely an ingredient. Nutritionally eggs are a valuable food—one of our most valuable. They are rich in proteins and in minerals especially phosphorus, and the yolk contains health-giving vitamins. An egg a day is a good rule for properly balanced diets, or at least three times a week.

Every one is familiar with the commoner ways of serving eggs for breakfast — boiled, fried, scrambled, baked or, on special occasions, made into delicious scuffles or omelets. But this is only a beginning.

Egg dishes for luncheons are tempting and satisfying. Sliced or diced, hard cooked eggs may be added to vegetable casseroles or salads; raw they may be converted into delightful rarebits, timbales or omelets, or may be added to canned meat or fish combinations. Eggs used thus are not only good extenders but add flavor and color to the dish. Eggs au gratin, souffles, and stuffed hard cooked eggs molden in aspic are other luncheon favorites.

Stuffed Eggs in Aspic

For stuffed eggs in aspic, boil the eggs hard and chill. Peel and cut in halves. Scoop out the yolks and mash, adding salt, pepper and mayonnaise to moisten. Mix the mashed yolk with some finely chopped scallions or with deviled ham and fill the halved whites. Press into each center a curled anchovy. Make four cups of tomato aspic. Pour into small cups or molds and when thick, put half an egg into each mold. Cover carefully with more of the cool jelly, and allow to set. Unmold onto a plate with a green salad or serve with cold sliced meat.

Peach Waffles

For dinner, eggs make pretty appetizers, garnishes, salads or desserts — and, of course, they help you in preparing your main course if necessary. For dessert nothing could be better than a half or quarter of crispy hot waffle spread with whipped cream and slices of luscious peaches. For this never-fail batter, cream one-half cup vegetable fat, with one-half cup sugar and two beaten eggs. Mix and sift two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt and add to the first mixture alternately with one cup of milk. Then add one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-half teaspoon lemon extract and one and one-half cups of diced peaches. Bake on a waffle iron and, if you wish sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve plain.

Orange Omelet

For the orange omelet in the second breakfast menu beat five egg yolks until thick and add five tablespoons orange juice, the grated rind of half an orange, two tablespoons powdered sugar and one-half teaspoon salt. Fold the yolk mixture into five stiffly beaten whites and pour into a pan in which one and one-half tablespoons butter has been melted. When brown on the under side, place in a slow oven to brown on top. Loosen with a spatula, cut through the middle, and fold. Serve at once garnished with orange slices.

Incidentally you might like to take advantage of the present bargains in eggs and preserve some of them for use this winter. Do not wash the eggs but pack them in small crocks. Boil nine parts of water, cool and mix with one part of liquid water-glass. Pour this solution over the eggs covering to a height of two inches.

Bacon Slices

The bacon slices may be chopped and added to the salad dressing—left-over jelly is broken into small bits and added to the meringue for the pudding—odds and ends of fruits go into the fruit cup on the second menu while left-over vegetables may be added to the lamb casserole. Bits of ham or dried beef may be added to scrambled eggs or omelets for an interesting breakfast entree.

Home-Making

By ALINE STERN

If it has been your experience in making cream of tomato soup that the acid of the tomato caused the milk to curdle, prepare it in the following way next time: Thicken the hot tomato juice. Heat the milk separately. Before the boiling point is reached, add the tomato to the milk slowly. Heat—do not boil—and serve at once.

* * *

Homemakers who use soda in the preparation of cream of tomato soup to prevent the tomato from curdling the milk, should be warned against it, because the soda destroys the vitamin C of the tomato.

* * *

If you are refurnishing your home, you may be interested to know that there are enamel paints in a variety of colors that can be applied to any surface, including wood, brass, glass, celluloid.

* * *

It pays to invest in good enamel, and it is cheaper in the end, because a single coat does the job.

* * *

Thumb tacks should be placed on the back of shelves to hold any standing dishes. Otherwise there will come a time you will wish you had taken this precaution.

The large paper bags in which clothes come home from the cleaners come in very handy to cover over dresses in the closet and prevent dust from getting on them when not being worn.

THE RUSTLE OF TAFFETA

The Mae West influence on the world of style is evident in this feathery fall fashion recently shown in New York, known as the "Lady Lou" ensemble. It consists of a cape of eel gray ostrich, with a d[illegible]er or theater cap of gray velvet trimmed with ostrich tips.

You and Your Child

CHILD'S TEETH NEED WATCHING

By JANE HERBERT COWARD

"HOWARD is such a good-looking boy. Isn't it too bad his teeth are growing crooked?" The boy's aunt was speaking.

MRS. COWARD

Yes, isn't it? And isn't it worse that nothing is being done about it? Howard is seven. At this age he should be taken frequently to the dentist so that careful watch can be kept to see that corrections are properly made in good time.

Physicians are agreed that poor teeth, like rickets, are the result of malnutrition and that with proper diet the health of teeth can be maintained. Before a baby is born, the physician plans the mother's diet to include sufficient lime or calcium for both mother and child. Lime is a substance for building and preserving the teeth. Milk especially is rich in this element and every child should have a quart of milk a day.

Sweets Have Place in Diet

Not so very many years ago it was commonly believed that candy was the cause of toothache. Many parents still cling to this idea. I know of a case of a boy who has been taught to dislike candy and desserts. His mother has poor teeth and so have her brothers and sisters and they attribute their trouble to this source. While it is true that the youngster's teeth are coming along fine, it is hardly because of abstinence from candy, but rather because he does eat foods which are rich in lime: Milk, green vegetables, such as celery and spinach, fresh fruits, especially oranges, and whole grain cereals.

The child, however, is listless. He tires easily. He needs the quick energy which sweets would supply.

Candy may be served to children as a part of the meal, at the end of the meal preferably. It is the between meal candy habit that spoils appetites. If teeth are brushed regularly and if periodic visits to the dentist are made, there is little danger of decay from sweets.

Early Care of Teeth

Toward the end of his first year, baby should be given dry, hard foods to chew. He needs the exercise of biting to develop strong teeth and jaws. His teeth should be brushed gently with a soft brush every day.

A child should be broken of the habit of sucking his fingers or the shape of his mouth may be permanently damaged—not to mention what this habit may do to the fingers also. Thumb sucking usually pushes the lower gum in and the upper one out, so that when the teeth do appear, the lower and upper teeth do not meet evenly.

Caste System Among English Servants . . . The Greatest of England's Mine Owners

YEARS ago my mother pinned a poem to the kitchen wall, which read:

As a rule a man's a fool;
When it's hot he wants it cool,
And when it's cool he wants it hot,
Always wanting what is not.

As time goes on the wisdom in this little jingle seems more and more convincing. On a recent trip abroad, while in London, I thought of the poem when I found that while dukes and duchesses are daily getting more democratic and the lords and the ladies laugh with the lowly, the lesser classes of England grow snootier and more snobbish.

Butlers, footmen, children's nurses and even salespeople in the stores tilt their noses skyward on the least provocation. The caste system which prevails in some of the larger London department stores would put to shame the age-old traditions of India, and a meeting between the different strata of this retail social structure would make an encounter between a Maharajah and an "untouchable" look like a special get-together of a group of Rotarians.

As an example of just how things are, I will cite the fact that a salesgirl in "woolen underwear" would not dream of addressing the attractive young miss who holds forth behind the silk lingerie counter, except, of course, on a matter of business. The haughty young dispenser of rare and costly perfumes would positively shudder at the thought of washing her hands in the same basin used by the upstart in the basement hardware department.

In the servants' quarters in English homes the butler is called "Mr Jasmine" by the lesser footmen, while if the "boots" or the scullery-boy fails to address his superiors as "Sir," he is rewarded with a smart box on the ears. And when the butler sits down to dine, after superintending the service to his employers, he usually does so alone and in state. Even among the tribute from the realm of King help there is a class distinction, and almost as much fuss about their social status as prevails at an embassy dinner.

As for nurses and ordinary maids, don't dare mention them in the same breath. When you see two chubby-faced youngsters with their escorts in Hyde Park, don't think for a moment that they can romp together and enjoy themselves as ordinary children. Heaven forbid it. If one of the women in charge happens to be a proper or regular child's nurse and the other only a general maid, the former wouldn't think of permitting her charge to play with the other tot, any more than she'd think of addressing a remark to its custodian.

Many a titled, landed lord who bemoans the passing of the old order, would probably get a better deal if he changed places with his butler. Then he would be assured of a more comfortable existence, a better served meal and a great deal more attention from the servants.

* * *

MINE troubles in America recalls the fact that the biggest owner of coal mines in England is the powerful Church of England, which, incidentally, is also the largest landlord in Great Britain. Few people realize that the Ecclesiastical Commission occupies so powerful a position as proprietor of coal-fields, farm land and city real estate in Old England, where economic conditions are not quite as merry as they once were. The church's extraction of heavy tribute from the real mof King Coal has long been a target of British radical attacks.

It isn't just a coincidence that hundreds of ancient manors on the undeveloped moors of Durham, acquired by the church, hold rich veins of coal in their subsoil. The church domains extend to virtually all the rich coal-fields of England, including Yorkshire, Nottingham, Lancashire, Staffordshire and Somersetshire. Mining companies operating collieries on these church properties, pay the Ecclesiastical Commission a royalty on every ton of coal mined, whether it is sold or left to pile up among idle stocks in bunkers.

For nearly a century it has been ordained that profits accruing to the Church of England shall be devoted to increasing benefices, supplying parsonages, paying curates' stipends and "improving the church's welfare." In 1932 the Church paid out approximately $9,720,000 at par for these purposes and pensions while carrying over an additional $1,215,000 at par.

HOME WOMEN MUST RESIST NERVE STRAIN

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

MRS. MARTIN

TO BE considered temperamental seems to be regarded as a compliment. But those who live at close range with temperamentals are inclined to regard them as a nuisance. There is something something comfortable and easy to live with about a phlegmatic person, maddenning though they may be at times.

* * *

THERE never was anything truer than that "it is easy enough to be pleasant when life goes along like a song." Even ill-natured people manage to be fairly decent to live with when they are having their own way and being allowed to do exactly as they please, when they please. A little discipline early in life is what such people lacked. A spoiled child very likely grows up to be one of those domestic tyrants who is a disturber of the domestic peace over trifles.

* * *

"I SIMPLY cannot do thus and so if things are not just right," says one. "If I am disturbed in my routine, I can do nothing," says another. "I can work only in the morning," says someone else—or at midnight, as the case may be. All of which is interesting—but only to the self-centered person who hedges himself, or herself, around with such restrictions.

* * *

BUSY men and women cannot afford the luxury of working only when the spirit moves them. They quickly learn that whether conditions are ideal or not, they must "do their stuff." Writers who insist on absolute silence while they are working should take a peek into the average newspaper office and see stories being written at white heat amid a fearful din and clatter. Men and women accustomed to working with the office business going on under their noses complain because they cannot write without the stimulus this gives them. What is it then—a matter of training or of self-control?

* * *

A MAN is certainly not marked down as a genius because he is highly emotional, temperamental, if you like, and cannot be disturbed without going all to pieces. Women, credited, or discredited, with being the nervous sex, are always working under adverse circumstances. If they accomplish anything at all, it is usually to a running accompaniment of childish prattle, or ceaseless interruptions over the telephone, or at the floor, or some domestic chore. No wonder women are nervous. What man could stand having the pressure all these accumulative trifles exert, and turn up smiling at the end of the day, and with a creditable record of achievement?

* * *

WHAT about these rainy days, when the children have to stay indoors and seem unable to accommodate themselves to their environment? Harassed mothers, busy with their own affairs, have to manage as best they can, amid the confusion the children make. They have to stop a dozen times an hour to settle a dispute, or to set the children some task which will keep them occupied. If anyone thinks a day such as this is not a strain on the nervous sysstem, they have never lived through one, or else are totally without nerves.

* * *

AMONG the thousand and one duties parents have to their children is to get them interested in reading, and at an early date. "I like to read only when I am sick in bed," a child told her mother one rainy day, when the poor woman was driven to distraction because of the restless child, who simply could find no entertainment for herself indoors. The answer to this, presumably, is that the child's mental development has not reached the state which includes an interest in, not alone an appreciation of, story books. The fault probably lay with her busy parents, who had never aroused her curiosity and interest by reading to her, when obviously it was something of a hardship for her to read herself.

* * *

MEN and women who take themselves off to offices in the morning, no matter how many complications the day may bring, are spared the constant irritation heaped upon women who work at home, and usually under the most adverse circumstances.

PUBLIC WARNED OF SALES TAX RACKETEERING

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30.—Warning to the general public and especially, merchants, to beware of racketeering by petition circulators, seeking funds for the asserted purpose of starting a referendum against the state sales tax, was issued today by the State Board of Equalization.

Attorney General Webb has ruled that a referendum against the sales tax would be illegal the Board pointed out, inasmuch as the act was adopted as an emergency measure to meet emergency conditions.

"Despite the fact that referendum proceedings are impossible" said the Board's statement, "petition circulators are still active in various sections of the state seeking contributions of from $1 to $10 from merchants and others.

"The Board is investigating some of the most flagrant cases of misrepresentation with a view to prosecutions and will appreciate information from merchants who have been imposed upon.

"Two complaints have been received that contributions were obtained by the fraudulent representation that the money was to go to pay for licenses under the sales tax.

"Merchants are warned that bona fide state inspectors will not collect funds from any one, the merchant mailing his license fee and tax returns direct to the Board's offices. Ask to see the credentials of any one representing himself to be an agent of the Board."

Indicating the insincerity of the referendum movement the Board announced that H. F. Deuberry, supervisor of the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League one of the groups circulating petitions—had applied to the Board for a position as a sales tax administrator. He started his referendum movement after his application had been rejected the statement said.

All News Sales Free From Tax Is Board Rule

SACRAMENTO. Aug. 30.—UP—Newspaper subscriptions and all newspaper circulation including street sales, are exempt from the retail sales tax, the state board of equalization ruled today.

Wire services of newspapers, classified as "service" rather than a commodity were likewise reduced.

Job printing will be subject to the 2½ percent tax.

Fred E. Stewart board member, recommended that where practical, merchants include the tax in the sales price of articles instead of putting the tax on another sales ticket.

Commission Warns Terminal Company

The Parr-Richmond Terminal Corporation was ordered to desist from the practice of permitting shippers to save themselves money by unloading their own cars at the Richmond terminals, in a decision handed down by the Railroad Commission yesterday.

The same ruling demands that the Parr company adjust itself to the free time rules and demurrage requirements applicable at other bay terminals and that Parr file his new rates with the Railroad Commission.

The case grew out of the plan adopted by the Parr Company in the summer of 1932 in allowing certain large shippers of dried fruits and other products to employ their own car unloaders to handle freight from the cars at the Richmond terminal.

The customary charge for this was 40 cents a ton and the charge was part of the profit of the terminal. In turning the car unloading over to the shipper who in turn employed professional car unloaders Parr declared he was permitting them to make a substantial saving in their transportation costs.

The Railroad Commission ruled that the plan had created no new traffic for the bay region but had only diverted certain traffic to the Parr wharf in Richmond.

Fred D. Parr, president of the company, in a statement yesterday, reiterated his position that Richmond occupies a somewhat unfavorable position on the bay and should be favored with this differential.

"It is unreasonable to compel us to enforce the same charges and conditions at Richmond as apply at other terminals more centrally located," he said.

"Stockton allows the shippers to do their own car unloading exactly as we do at Richmond and we are not doing anything at Richmond that is not being done by our competitor the State Terminals at San Francisco."

The Commission, in its ruling declared that State or publicly owned terminals are in a different legal category, and that the same rule will not be made to apply.

"We are neither a city nor a county facility," said Parr, "and should have some differential between interior facilities and those located at the largest centers of population. The steamers sail from Richmond several days before they sail from points on the lower bay and the right of any shipper to do the unloading of his freight from cars should be recognized in order to assist in overcoming the handicap faced by him in routing his freight through a terminal where there are less frequent sailings and earlier sailing dates.

"This is necessary in order to equalize the competitive conditions through the facilities of the Port of Oakland on the Oakland waterfront and the California Packing Corporation through its ownership of Encinal terminals in Alameda and Balfour Guthrie & Company through ownership of Howard Terminals."

When Parr instituted his car unloading plan he was opposed by the State Terminals, Encinal, Howard and the Port of Oakland, and these forces joined in the Railroad Commission case asking the Commission to force him to discontinue the practice, the decision in which has just been handed down.

Under the opinion Parr is not permitted to allow the free time period before demurrage begins to accrue different from the ten day rule and must conform to the rules applied to other terminals in his demurrage charges.

The Commission rules that extension of the ten-day rule by Parr was equivalent to providing free storage and was done with the further object of diverting cargo to Parr's facility.

READ-WINDSOR SUIT IS BEGUN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30—Clad in a costume of blue, blond Claire Windsor appeared in superior court today for trial of a $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against her by Marion Read, Jr., Oakland and Los Angeles stock broker.

Miss Windsor is being defended in the suit by Thomas Carlson, Richmond attorney.

The suit, filed in Oakland in March, 1932, was transferred here for trial on a motion of the defense for a change of venue.

Read, dressed in a white linen suit, also appeared in court but his wife was not there and her lawyer said she would not appear until the case got under way.

Case Re-Assigned

After the case was called, Judge Marshall F. McComb assigned it to the court of Judge Sproul for trial. The defense has asked for a jury trial.

The actress, who denied she had stolen Read's affections and claimed that he represented himself to her, as first, as an unmarried man was accompanied by her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Cronk. Her costume included a crepe street frock of blue, blue beret and high-heeled blue slippers.

When Mrs. Read entered the courtroom later, she glanced at her former husband and smiled but she and the actress apparently ignored each other. Miss Windsor also looked occasionally at Read and exchanged smiles of recognition.

Both Read and his former wife appeared nervous. Miss Windsor sat calmly, watching with interest as selection of a jury was begun with seven women and five men placed in the box for questioning.

Tells Dilemma

"I'm between the devil and the deep blue sea," said Read. "I don't want to turn against Mrs. Read but on the other hand I'm subpenaed to testify for Miss Windsor and my testimony will help. This being the zone of contention is not enjoyable."

Mrs. Read, like the actress, was gowned in blue, although of a deeper shade. She wore a blue ensemble with white polka dots and a white turban.

Her composure was somewhat disturbed just as she entered the court room by the serving upon her of a notice of foreclosure of a $2000 mortgage on her Oakland home.

OIL MEN TO HELP WITH NEW CODES

HYDE PARK N. Y., Aug. 30—UP—President Roosevelt tonight enlisted the leaders of the nation's oil industry as his aides in carrying out their code which becomes effective September 2.

As members of the planning and coordinating committee to work with Secretary of the Interior Ickes, oil and public works administrator, the chief executive selected James A. Moffett, former vice president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey; Donald Richberg labor counsel for the NRA, and M. L. Benedum of Pittsburgh as the representatives of the recovery administration.

Twelve oil leaders were chosen to represent the industry.

All Experts

All of the men, the White House explained, are experts in their particular fields ranging from the production, marketing and stabilization ends of those on tariffs export and import and executives.

Immediately after Mr. Roosevelt announced selection of the committee the summer White House declared that its first meeting had been called for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the interior department by Administrator Ickes.

"The President and Secretary Ickes also agreed," the summer White House announcement said "to organize several regional emergency committees. These committees will be created to give wider representation to the industry. When appointed it will be their duty to study and arrive at conclusions on purely local questions within their regions."

F. D. Observes

In connection with his determination to set the machinery of recovery running in high gear, it was learned here today that Mr. Roosevelt was watching closely the situation created by Henry Ford in remaining aloof from the automobile code.

The President has instructed General Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, to keep him posted of all developments. It was pointed out however that he has not yet decided on the course of action to be pursued in the event the multi-millionaire Detroit motor manufacturer decides to scorn the blue eagle.

Meanwhile preparations were complete for Mr. Roosevelt's departure from Hyde Park at noon tomorrow. The destroyer Manley, which will escort the Nourmahal already is at anchor off the summer White House. The destroyer Twiggs will join the ships in New York bay.

Attends Show

During the afternoon Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by members of his family and friends, motored to Rhinebeck for the Dutchess county fair and horse show. He watched with interest as his daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall and his son, John rode the White House horse "new deal" in their respective classes to win prizes.

Richmond Man Off N. C. School Board

John J. Allen, Jr. president of the Oakland Board of Education, was elected president of the Association of School Trustees and Directors of Northern California at the association's first meeting of the school year held last night in the Oakland Schools' Administration Building.

Allen succeeds Dr. William Morgan of Berkeley. Other officers named were: Vice president, William H. Hitchings, Alameda succeeding Homer Patterson, Richmond, and secretary and treasurer Mrs. Harriet Eliel, president of the Berkeley Board of Education and of the State League of Women Voters succeeding F. N. Kornhaus, Oakland.

Harris Trial Date Set for October 3

MARTINEZ, Aug. 30.—October 3 has been fixed by the supreme court as the time for hearing arguments on the appeal of Daniel Harris, convicted murderer of Harry Whited, Crockett jeweler.

The appeal automatically stays Harris' execution set for September 1 at Folsom prison.

Briefs have been filed by Defense Counsel, Michael Dowling A. S. Sherlock Hugh Donovan and Forrest Bailey.

UNDER KNIFE

Miss Violet Waldon, local high school student, has been taken to a Martinez hospital where she will undergo an appendectomy.

West Pacific Meets Coupons

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30—UP—Substantial improvements in operating revenues of the Western Pacific Railroad company made it possible to meet September 1 bond coupons with a minimum of assistance from associated companies, the railroad announced today.

from the living room to a bedroom before he found his wife's body. That testimony was important. The jajamas bear blood stains. Lamson claims he told Hamilton he was carrying the pajamas when he found the body.

He told of finding a piece of cloth in a backyard bonfire Lamson had been tending. The cloth was turned over to Dr. Frederick Proescher, county pathologist. Dr. Proescher is expected to testify he found blood stains on it. That testimony, if given, will attack Lamson's claim that he knew nothing of his wife's death before he found her body while admitting a caller to his home.

Smart Fellow

Buffington, known as a "confession getter," is noted for gaining confidence of accused men and persuading them to admit crimes with which they are charged.

Lamson, Buffington testified, told him his wife was ill the night before her death. Lamson, as a result, slept in another room. He assertedly told Buffington he had never done so before.

He quoted Lamson as admitting martial difficulties.

Lamson was quoted as having told the deputy he arose at 6 a. m., worked in his yard, prepared his wife's breakfast, assisted her to her bath at 9 a. m. left her there and returned to his work. An hour latter, Lamson discovered his wife's body, the skull fractured.

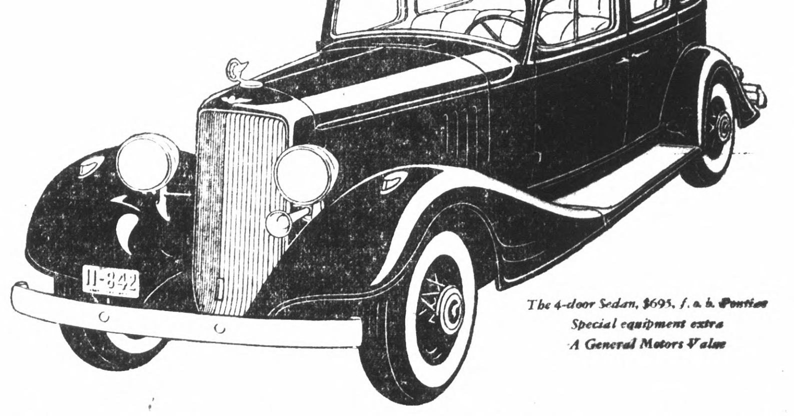
Pontiac.. THE WORLD'S LARGEST BUILDER of STRAIGHT EIGHTS



The 4-door Sedan, $695, f. o. b. Pontiac
Special equipment extra
A General Motors Value

Here's why America is buying them!

Men and women are buying more Pontiacs than any other car in Pontiac's price range! Why? Because they have found that this big, modern Straight Eight excels on all counts . . . as you will find when you see and drive it.

You get power in a Pontiac—more power than you'll find in any other automobile at or near its price—delivered far more smoothly by Pontiac's 77-horsepower Straight Eight engine.

You get more speed, too—78 actual miles per hour. Your Pontiac holds the road better—rides more comfortably—because it's a big car, with 115-inch wheelbase and well-distributed weight (3265 pounds, curb weight, for the 4-door Sedan). And it's the only car in its price range with the Fisher Ventilation System—greatest comfort factor since the development of the closed body.

There just isn't anything to compare with Pontiac at its price. In Fisher Body beauty—in comfort—in Straight Eight performance. That's why America is buying Pontiacs. That's why you'll prefer Pontiac, too.
